5 Warnings
Hebrews

Introduction

1. Authorship

There is no consensus concerning the author of Hebrews. The book itself is anonymous. The text makes no direct reference to the author and there is no explicit evidence as to who the author might be. The author must have been a Jew who was very familiar with the Old Testament Scriptures and the practice of first-century Jews. Several suggestions have been made concerning who the author might have been.

a. Paul. Many have argued that Paul was the author. Several reasons are given: (1) Faith is a very important topic in the book; (2) The writer was associated with Timothy (Heb. 13:23); (3) Habakkuk 2:4 is quoted three places in the New Testament—Rom. 1:17, Gal. 3:11, and Heb. 10:38; and (4) There is a strong emphasis on the person and work of Christ. However, there are important elements of the book that do not seem to be Pauline. The author never uses his name, which is contrary to Paul’s style. The writer seems to put himself outside of the circle of the New Testament Apostles (Heb. 2:3-4). The style of writing is much more classical than Paul’s style (like Luke). The stress on the priesthood of Jesus is not found in any Pauline material.

b. Silas. Some have maintained that there are similarities between 1 Peter and this epistle and note that Silas was the amanuensis of that letter.

c. Barnabas. Tertullian thought that Barnabas must have been the author. Barnabas was a Levite (Acts 4:36), and he would have been well versed in the Old Testament system of worship. Barnabas, the “son of encouragement,” could have written a book, which is full of encouragement (cf. 13:22). Some of the Pauline ideas and phrases could be explained on the basis of Barnabas’ close association with Paul.

d. Apollos. This was the view of Luther and also W. A. Criswell. There is no early support for this position. Apollos was gifted in the explanation of the Old Testament Scriptures that would be a prerequisite for the authorship of Hebrews.
e. Luke. David Allen of Southwestern Seminary, has proposed that Luke is the author of Hebrews and that he wrote to the many former Jewish priests who had become “obedient to the faith” as recorded in Acts 6:7.

1) Patristic Evidence

Clement of Alexandria (c. 155-220) is quoted by Eusebius (Ecclesiastical History, VI. 14) as saying that “the Epistle to the Hebrews is the work of Paul, . . . it was written to the Hebrews in the Hebrew language; but . . . Luke translated it carefully and published it for the Greeks, and hence the same style of expression is found in this epistle and in the Acts.”

Origen (c. 185-254) is quoted by Eusebius (Ecclesiastical History, VI. 25) as saying “but who wrote the epistle, in truth, God knows. The statement of some who have gone before us is that Clement, bishop of the Romans, wrote the epistle, and of others that Luke, the author of the gospel and the Acts, wrote it.”

2) Lexical Similarity

3) Stylistic Similarity

2. The conjunction te is used most frequently in Luke’s writings and Hebrews.

3. The use of the phrase en gar to is found only in Hebrews 2:18 and Acts 11:15.

4. The particle kaitoi is found only in Hebrews 4:3 and in Acts 14:17 and 17:27.
5. The infinitive prosechein followed by the dative case is found only in Hebrews 2:1 and Acts 16:14.

7. othen is used frequently by Luke and Hebrews, but never by Paul.

8. The future infinitive occurs only in Acts and Hebrews.

9. The future participle to express purpose is found only in Acts 8:27 and Hebrews 13:17.

10. The use of the phrase “how much more” is common to Luke and Hebrews.

11. The ratio of participles to total occurrences of verbs and verbals is identical in Hebrews and the last half of Acts (chapters 16-28).

14. B. F. Westcott says in his commentary on Hebrews, “It has been already seen that the earliest scholars who speak of the Epistle notice its likeness in style to the writings of St. Luke; and when every allowance has been made for coincidences which consist in forms of expression which are found also in the LXX or in other writers of the N.T., or in the late Greek generally, the likeness is unquestionably remarkable” (The Epistle to the Hebrews, p. lxxvi).
4) Theological Similarity

1. Christology
   a) Emphasis on the humanity of Christ is strong in both Luke and Hebrews.
   c) Christ as God’s final revelation is central to Luke’s gospel (especially chapters 1-2) and Hebrews (especially 1:1-4).

2. Angelology
   Luke records more instances of angelic activity than any other N.T. writer and the author of Hebrews is the writer most interested in their theological status.

3. Approach to Old Testament History

5) Evidence from Discourse Analysis

1. The prologues of both Luke and Hebrews are very similar in structure.

2. Both Luke and the writer to the Hebrews make use of chiasmus as an overall framework for their works.

6) Historical Reconstruction

1. Author Luke
2. Recipients Former Jewish Priests (Acts 6:7)
3. Date of writing c. A.D. 65-69
4. Place of writing Rome
5. Place of recipients Antioch (Syria)
7) Purpose of Luke-Acts and Hebrews

Hebrews 2:3-4 can be seen as a summary of the entire book of Acts.

2. Date.

The date of the epistle is directly related to the author and the destination of the letter. There are several things that should be noted about the possible date.

a. The letter must have been written before A.D. 96 because Clement of Rome quotes from the letter at that time. If the letter was written to Palestine, Cyprus, or North Africa, then it would have had to have been written well before 96 in order to have had such wide circulation by that time.

b. The letter must have been written before A.D. 70 because the priestly service was still functioning (Hebrews 8:4; 9:6; 10:1-2; 13:10). It would seem strange that the letter would not mention the fact that the worship had been cut off if the letter was written after A.D. 70 and the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple.

c. If the letter was sent from Rome, then the letter was probably written A.D. 65-69 during the persecutions that began in earnest against the Christians during the reign of Nero. It would seem strange that there was no mention of persecution if the letter was written after that time.

3. Recipients.

There is no question in the minds of most interpreters that the recipients of the epistle were Jewish. The question is, what kind of Jews were they and where did they live?

a. The recipients were Jewish. Some of them were inclined to remain in or return to Jerusalem (13:13). They were well acquainted with the Old Testament and its rituals.

b. They may have been Hellenistic Jews because all of the quotations come from the Septuagint (LXX) and related texts.

c. It has been suggested that the people lived in North Africa or in Cyprus, people who had an ascetic lifestyle similar to the Qumran community. Evidence from Qumran suggests that they had a highly developed doctrine of angels that would fit in very nicely with the thought of the author of Hebrews.

d. It has been suggested that these were Jews who lived in Rome.

e. A better suggestion is that the recipients were dwellers in Palestine or Antioch (Syria) and were involved still in temple worship, even though they were believers. The warning passages then would admonish them to stay away from a mindset that the Jewish rituals were necessary for salvation and sanctification.

Another question about the recipients that must be faced is the spiritual condition of the community to which the author was writing. There are three main views.

a. Some maintain that these are all believers who are being tempted to go back under the umbrella of Judaism. The warning sections would charge them to refrain from putting themselves back under the bondage of Judaism.

b. Others maintain that the recipients were Jews who were a mixed group. There were true believers and there were “professors”—people who said they were believers but were not. The warning sections in this view would be to those who were not really believers. They would receive the warnings of the author against lapsing back into Judaism which would show that they really did not have faith in Jesus Christ.

c. It is possible that the warning passages were intended to apply to both believers and unbelievers, challenging both to move forward “to” or “in” the superior way made possible by Jesus Christ.

Simple Outline

I. The superiority of the person of Christ 1:1 – 4:13

II. The superiority of the priesthood of Christ 4:14 – 10:18

III. An exhortation and encouragement to keep on with the faith 10:19 – 13:25
Hebrews: A Summary

BACKGROUND
Jews under persecution (by Judaism and possibly Roman-Nero)
Second generation Christians (true believers, perhaps converted priest)
3:1
False teachers 13:9
Spiritually immature 5:13; 6:1; Slack in worship 10:25

MAJOR THEMES
1. Exhortation to progress (13:22) by hearing and heeding the word (“To live by faith” cf. chapter 11).
2. Superiority of Christ!!!
3. Evaluation of present spiritual state.
4. Expectations for the future.

KEY WORDS
2. “Perfect” (14 times) 2:10; 3:9, 14; 6:1; 7:11, 19, 28; 9:9, 11; 10:1, 14; 11:40; 12:2, 23.
3. “Eternal” (9 times).

KEY CONCERN OF HEBREWS: THE WARNING PASSAGES (5)
1. 2:1-4 Drift
2. 3:7 – 4:13 Doubt, cf. Romans 10:17 for reason
3. 5:11 – 6:20 Dull
4. 10:26-39 Despise
5. 12:14-29 Defy

Are they for:
1. Believers in danger of losing salvation?
2. Professing church members but not possessing church members?
3. Believers in danger of losing earthly blessings and heavenly rewards by turning back?
4. Hypothetical cases to warn and encourage believers to press on?
5. Combination of views 2 and 3?
